DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restriction

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-7, drawn to methods of probe design, classified in class 702, subclass 19.
  - II. Claims 8-10, drawn to polymer substrate arrays, classified in class , subclass .
  - III. Claims 11-18, drawn to methods of verification of probe synthesis, classified in class 435, subclass 6.
  - IV. Claims 19-23, drawn to a business method for verifying a manufacturing process, classified in class 438, subclass 14.
2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:
3. Inventions in Group I and in Group II are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case, the product can be made the design method of Group I or by any generic method of polymer synthesis, such as a DNA synthesis apparatus or a peptide syntheses, since the resultant product is identical.
4. Inventions in Group II and in Group III are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, the product of Group II can be used in the verification method of Group III, in hybridization detection assays, in PCR amplification assays, in nucleic acid purification assays or in sequencing by hybridization assays.

5. Inventions in Group I and in Groups III and IV are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01).

In the instant case the different inventions are unrelated because the process steps, the results, the modes of operation and the effects of Group I are different than those of the methods of Groups III and IV.

6. Inventions in Groups IV and in Group III are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the claim does not depend from the subcombination claim and recites none of the specific process steps of the subcombination. The subcombination has separate utility such as verifying the synthesis of probes by using hybridization techniques for DNA probes.

7. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

8. A telephone call was made to Michael Ritter on May 25, 2001 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

9. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a petition under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
